Announcement from Afviklingselskabet til sikring af finansiel stabilitet A/S

Afviklingselskabet til sikring af finansiel stabilitet A/S announces new appointments

Afviklingselskabet til sikring af finansiel stabilitet has appointed Niels Olsen as vice president and Marianne Simonsen as chief legal counsel.

Niels Olsen, 46, has been with Carnegie Bank for a number of years, serving most recently as managing director of Carnegie Bank in Denmark.

Marianne Simonsen, 43, has served as Chief Compliance Officer of FIH since 2006. Prior to joining FIH, Marianne Simonsen worked with the Danish Financial Supervisory Authority for a number of years.

“We are in the process of building a small, efficient organisation, and I’m very pleased that we’ve managed to attract two highly competent individuals with long-standing and extensive experience from the financial sector and with strong economics, finance and legal skills,” said Henrik Bjerre-Nielsen, the company’s CEO.

New website

In another step to build its organisation, the company is about to launch a new website www.finansielstabilitet.dk.

“Our goal is to provide adequate and concise information about our company’s activities and we’ve now set up the initial version of our website, giving stakeholders access to relevant information about our company and its activities. The next step will be to develop the website early in the New Year, so that it can become an even better and more accessible source of information about our company,” said Mr Bjerre-Nielsen.
